Japan America Society of Southern California's U.S. – JAPAN GREEN CONFERENCE

April 9, 2008, Los Angeles, California — Japan America Society and Port of Los Angeles will present the Second Annual U.S.-JAPAN GREEN CONFERENCE at the Torrance Holiday Inn in Torrance, California on May 14, 2008 from 3:00 to 5:30PM. A Networking Reception will immediately follow from 5:30 to 7:00PM.

Japan is a world leader for energy conservation, reduction of the use of natural resources, recycling and the elimination of hazardous pollutants. “Regionally, the Port of Los Angeles and Port of Long Beach have worked hand-in-hand to create the world’s most comprehensive global seaport strategy to cut air pollution and reduce health risks,” comments Douglas Erber, President of Japan America Society of Southern California.

Teresa Scognamillo of Port of Los Angeles, Heather Tomley of Port of Long Beach, Dr. Kenichi Sato of Sumitomo Electric Industries, and Benjamin Collinwood of Sanyo Energy (USA) are among the expert panelists to lead the discussion on the business of green technology and products, clean air initiatives and environmental marketing strategies that will shape the future of business and benefit not just the US and Japan, but the entire world.
